Standard Chartered Securities launches new Sukuk offering

29 November 2025, Brunei Darussalam – Standard Chartered Securities Sdn Bhd (“SCSB”), is proud to announce the launch of its Sukuk offerings in addition to its existing line up of Islamic investment products.

Sukuk, often referred to as Islamic bonds, are financial certificates that comply with Islamic law (Syariah). Unlike conventional bonds, which represent a debt obligation, Sukuk may represent either debt obligation or partial ownership in a tangible asset, project, business, or investment depending on the underlying Syariah contract applied for the Sukuk. Investors in Sukuk earn returns through profit which arises from the trade transaction or from profit-sharing mechanisms, rather than interest which is derived from merely provision of loans, ensuring compliance with Islamic financial principles.

The new Sukuk offerings by SCSB provide sophisticated investors with a diversified, ethical, and Syariah-compliant wealth solution. These are offered to sophisticated investors, both Muslim and non-Muslim, to align their investment portfolio with strong ethical standards. Sophisticated investors refer to any individual or corporation that falls under the Accredited Investors definition as specified under Section 20 of Securities Market Order, 2013 (SMO).

Brenda Low, CEO, Standard Chartered Securities remarked:

“As part of our continued commitment to offering diverse and inclusive wealth solutions, I am delighted to announce the expansion of our investment offerings to now include Sukuk. This addition further solidifies our position as a leading provider of wealth solutions and our commitment to providing diverse and Syariah-compliant investment opportunities to our clients. Our commitment to innovation, client-centricity, and adherence to ethical standards ensures that we continue to deliver exceptional value and experience to our clients.”

Tan Chee Hau, Head of Wealth Solutions at Standard Chartered Brunei said:
